WHEN A SEASONED RENOVATOR AND AN INTERIOR DESIGNER BECOME PARTNERS IN DESIGN, AS WELL AS IN LIFE, THE RESULTS SPEAK FOR THEMSELVES

STORY SHELLEY TUSTIN STYLING STEPHANIE POWELL
PHOTOGRAPHY SIMON WHITBREAD

TAKING IT EASY By playing with texture, homeowner Jeff's partner, interior designer Sheira, has added layers of life to this living room in Sydney's eastern suburbs. A 'Jane' leather-wrapped coffee table from Camerich contrasts with bronze nesting tables from Weylandts, while the simple linen sofas (for similar, try MCM House) are dressed with muted mustard textiles – a linen throw from Hale Mercantile Co and cushions from Orson & Blake. The black patchwork rug is from Home & Giftware. Deciding to drop the living areas below the house's entry level solved the problem of the sloping site and enabled the rear to open directly onto the garden (opposite). Narrow widths of cedar decking have been installed with concealed fixings – although Jeff (pictured opposite, with Sheira) admits this was time-consuming and expensive. The pay-off, however, is a spectacular outdoor space. Guests who sit at the 'Aquila' outdoor table on 'Corillo' armchairs, both from Eco Outdoor, invariably focus on Christina Waterson's modular aluminium sculpture Stellar. An Entanglements 'Rings Bowl & Base' fire pit from The Block Shop adds a rustic touch. >

MAIN BEDROOM

The luxe B&B Italia 'Charles' bed from Space, bought for Jeff's previous home, is made for the modern styling of the main bedroom. A good thing, too, as this was a budget-pushing purchase at the end of a pricey build. "You get to the end of the building process and you're drawing deep, but you actually have to get the right furniture to bring the best out of all the spaces," says Jeff. The wall is veneer panelling - a surface material that appears throughout the home. It adds a layer of organic appeal to its sleek surroundings, which are simply decorated with leather 'Drum' side tables from Camerich and wall-mounted 'Tolomeo Mini Parete' lamps from Artemide. Sheridan bedlinen and a linen throw from Hale Mercantile Co add touchable texture and, in the blue, a brief nod to the ocean view through the opposite window. >

HOLLY'S ROOM

Flooded with sunlight by windows on three sides, daughter Holly's bedroom is petite but perfectly pretty. An 'Apollo 11 II' artwork by Mitch Gobel adds a splash of colour to the neutral palette of a custom bedhead by Ambience Upholstery, pale grey throw from Sheridan and circle cushion from Hale Mercantile Co. A simple, retro-look 'Everline' bedside table from Matt Blatt holds a candle from Mecca Cosmetica and a vintage Japanese vase from Planet.
